Title: “My Career with NGO: Why Global AND Grassroots-based Career is So Interesting?”

Ms. Kyoko Maekawa was born in north part of Kyoto in 1979. She received a master degree from Graduate School of International Development, Nagoya University.

She strongly believes that problems and issues in urban and rural areas are interrelated, so she started to develop her career as a Community Facilitator at “Mura no Mirai” whose motto is considering “Local issues are global issues”, as an intern in 2005. She became a permanent staff of “Mura no Mirai” in 2006. Since then, she has been mainly in charge of projects in India and Senegal, and taken up assignments with JICA (Japan International Cooperation Agency) and other institutions as an expert of community facilitator training. Currently, she is a Deputy Secretary General and a project manager.
